Malpractice, Maladministration & Plagiarism

Colne Primary Academy is committed to consistent, valid and reliable assessment that meets the requirements of regulatory bodies such as Ofqual and Awarding organisations.

Summary

This Malpractice, Maladministration & Plagiarism Policy covers the assessment of all learners, whether assessed internally or by examinations and is derived from regulatory body requirements. Malpractice and maladministration can involve both learners and members of staff.

The Academy will:

- Ensure all staff members know and follow this policy & associated guidance
 - Include statements on malpractice and maladministration through the student or staff disciplinary procedures
 - Tell candidates about the malpractice and maladministration policy, making clear that plagiarism is regarded as malpractice and will be dealt with.
 - Explain to candidates what plagiarism and collusion are, at the start of each course
 - Teach candidates how to avoid plagiarism, for example, citation, referencing etc.
 - Ensure staff makes clear the extent to which learners can collaborate on assessed work
- Centre staff malpractice

‘Centre staff malpractice’ means:

- malpractice committed by a member of staff or contractor (whether employed under a contract of employment or a contract for services) at a Centre; or
- an individual appointed in another capacity by a Centre such as an invigilator, an Oral Language Modifier, a practical assistant, a prompter, a reader, a scribe or a Sign Language Interpreter.

Examples of Centre staff malpractice are set out below. These examples are not an exhaustive list and as such do not limit the scope of the definitions set out in this document. Other instances of malpractice may be identified and considered by the awarding bodies at their discretion.

Centre staff malpractice

Breach of security

Any act which breaks the confidentiality of question papers or materials, and their electronic equivalents, or the confidentiality of candidates’ scripts or their electronic equivalents. It could involve:

- failing to keep examination material secure prior to an examination;
- discussing or otherwise revealing secure information in public, e.g. internet forums;
- moving the time or date of a fixed examination beyond the arrangements permitted within the JCQ publication Instructions for conducting examinations. Conducting an examination before the published date constitutes Centre staff malpractice and a clear breach of security;
- failing to supervise adequately candidates who have been affected by a timetable variation; (This would apply to candidates subject to overnight supervision by Centre personnel or where an examination is to be sat in an earlier or later session on the scheduled day.)
- permitting, facilitating or obtaining unauthorised access to examination material prior to an examination;

- failing to retain and secure examination question papers after an examination in cases where the life of the paper extends beyond the particular session. For example, where an examination is to be sat in a later session by one or more candidates due to a timetable variation;
- tampering with candidate scripts or controlled assessments or coursework after collection and before dispatch to the awarding body/examiner/moderator;
- This would additionally include reading candidates' scripts or photocopying candidates' scripts prior to dispatch to the awarding body/examiner. The only instance where photocopying a candidate's script is permissible is where he/she has been granted the use of a transcript.
- failing to keep candidates' computer files which contain controlled assessments or coursework secure.

Deception

Any act of dishonesty in relation to an examination or assessment, but not limited to:

- inventing or changing marks for internally assessed components (e.g. coursework) where there is no actual evidence of the candidates' achievement to justify the marks awarded;
- manufacturing evidence of competence against national standards;
- fabricating assessment and/or internal verification records or authentication statements;
- entering fictitious candidates for examinations or assessments, or otherwise subverting the assessment or certification process with the intention of financial gain (fraud);
- substituting one candidate's controlled assessment or coursework for another.

Improper assistance to candidates

Any act where assistance is given beyond that permitted by the specification or regulations to a candidate or group of candidates, which results in a potential or actual advantage in an examination or assessment. For example:

- assisting candidates in the production of controlled assessments or coursework, or evidence of achievement, beyond that permitted by the regulations;
- sharing or lending candidates' controlled assessments or coursework with other candidates in a way which allows malpractice to take place;
- assisting or prompting candidates with the production of answers;
- permitting candidates in an examination to access prohibited materials (dictionaries, calculators etc.);
- prompting candidates in an examination/assessment by means of signs, or verbal or written prompts;
- assisting candidates granted the use of an Oral Language Modifier, a practical assistant, a prompter, a reader, a scribe or a Sign Language Interpreter beyond that permitted by the regulations.

Candidate malpractice

‘Candidate malpractice’ means malpractice by a candidate in the course of any examination or assessment, including the preparation and authentication of any controlled assessments or coursework, the presentation of any practical work, the compilation of portfolios of assessment evidence and the writing of any examination paper.

Examples of candidate malpractice are set out below. These examples are not an exhaustive list and as such do not limit the scope of the definitions set out in this document. Other instances of malpractice may be considered by the awarding bodies at their discretion.

For example:

- the alteration or falsification of any results document, including certificates;
- a breach of the instructions or advice of an invigilator, supervisor, or the awarding body in relation to the examination or assessment rules and regulations;
- failing to abide by the conditions of supervision designed to maintain the security of the examinations or assessments;
- collusion: working collaboratively with other candidates, beyond what is permitted;
- copying from another candidate (including the use of IT to aid the copying);
- allowing work to be copied e.g. posting written coursework on social networking sites prior to an examination/assessment;
- the deliberate destruction of another candidate’s work;
- disruptive behavior in the examination room or during an assessment session (including the use of offensive language);
- exchanging, obtaining, receiving, passing on information (or the attempt to) which could be examination related by means of talking, electronic, written or non-verbal communication;
- making a false declaration of authenticity in relation to the authorship of controlled assessments, coursework or the contents of a portfolio;
- allowing others to assist in the production of controlled assessments, coursework or assisting others in the production of controlled assessments or coursework;
- the misuse, or the attempted misuse, of examination and assessment materials and resources (e.g. exemplar materials);
- being in possession of confidential material in advance of the examination;
- bringing into the examination room notes in the wrong format (where notes are permitted in examinations) or inappropriately annotated texts (in open book examinations);
- the inclusion of inappropriate, offensive or obscene material in scripts, controlled assessments, coursework or portfolios;
- impersonation: pretending to be someone else, arranging for another person to take one’s place in an examination or an assessment;
- plagiarism: unacknowledged copying from published sources or incomplete referencing;
- theft of another candidate’s work;
- bringing into the examination room or assessment situation unauthorised material, for example: notes, study guides and personal organisers, own blank paper, calculators (when prohibited), dictionaries (when prohibited), instruments which can capture a digital image, electronic dictionaries (when prohibited), translators, wordlists, glossaries, iPods, mobile phones, MP3/4 players, pagers or other similar electronic devices;
- the unauthorised use of a memory stick where a candidate uses a word processor;
- behaving in a manner so as to undermine the integrity of the examination.

Malpractice by a candidate in a coursework or controlled assessment component of a specification discovered prior to the candidate signing the declaration of authentication need not be reported to the awarding body, but must be dealt with in accordance with the centre's internal procedures.

If irregularities in coursework are identified by a Centre after the candidate has signed the declaration of authentication, the head of Centre must submit full details of the case to the relevant awarding body at the earliest opportunity

Centres should not normally give credit for any work submitted which is not the candidate's own work.

If any assistance has been given, a note must be made of this on the cover sheet of the candidate's work or other appropriate place.

Malpractice

The Academy agrees to notify an awarding body as soon as it is discovered, by completing appropriate documentation, any established, suspected or alleged case of malpractice which includes maladministration.

Students will be notified in writing if malpractice is suspected using the suspected malpractice candidate notification form, along with a covering letter. Suspected Malpractice: Candidate notification form

Plagiarism

Plagiarism involves taking someone else's words, thoughts or ideas and trying to pass them off as your own. It is a form of cheating which is taken very seriously.

There are many ways to detect plagiarism.

- Markers can spot changes in the style of writing and use of language.
- Markers are highly experienced subject specialists who are very familiar with work on the topic concerned — they may have read the source you are using (or even marked the essay you have copied from).
- Internet search engines and specialised computer software can be used to match phrases or pieces of text with original sources and to detect changes in the grammar and style of writing or punctuation.

Dealing with Plagiarism

Where this is suspected, an initial informal discussion should be held with the candidate. It may be that the candidate has misunderstood the brief and acted in error, for example failing to reference the sources appropriately. In such cases the assessor should:

- Make sure the candidate is aware of the serious consequences of plagiarism
- Arrange for the candidate to re-submit the assessment following an appropriate revision of referencing etc.
- Record the outcomes of the discussion in the student file

If the initial discussion fails to lead to a satisfactory outcome, the case must be investigated and dealt with through the disciplinary process.
